Physical fitness is part of school life as Scott Chamberlain learns during gym class. 1 ... 2 ... 3 ... 4 ... keep it up!

Health class included a discussion of drugs for Dana Johnson, Tricia Lord, Ken Schreder, Mike Martinez, Lisa Shumaker, Joe Stokes.

Using the stairway to work out the sound effects for a play in Literature class are Jenny Wiley and Shannon Sabins.

Shop class includes learning rowtering as Tim Livengood demonstrates while Gary Welling seems to enjoy cleaning up.

Decorating for the holidays.

Everyone enjoys the Christmas program presented by the chorus.

ABOVE: Cub burgers and french fries are a popular lunch in the large cafeteria.
BELOW: Sometimes 3 minutes doesn't seem long enough to change classes—keep to the right!

Julie Barron gives the weather report in earth science class.

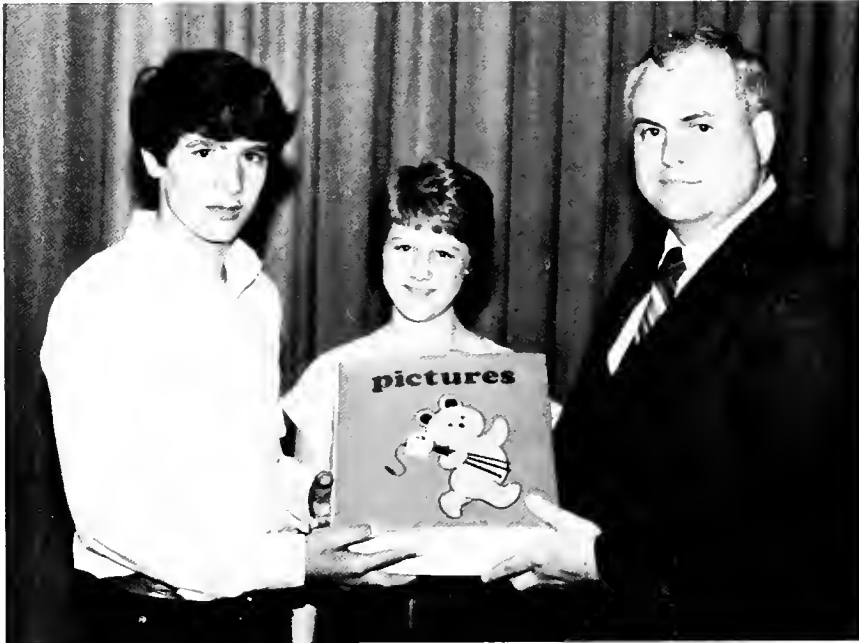

Reading, writing and arithmetic are the basics of education but Bryan Central Middle School is that plus much more!

On the pages of the 1982-83 yearbook, we present "The Bear Facts" about our school. Cutting down a whole year of work for hundreds of students is difficult and we must give you the "bare" minimum. So "bear" with us and enjoy these pages.

Happenings

Abe Lincoln lifts a heavy keg of nails to prove his strength in "The Early Days of Mr. Lincoln". Two actors played all the roles in this play. The assembly was sponsored by the Student Council.

A new project for eighth graders this year was putting together a scrapbook of all newspaper clippings concerning our school. Editors, Mario Brunicardi and Carrie Hoeffel, presented the scrapbook to Mr. Dominique on the last day of school. Looking through the book, displayed in the school library, is bound to bring lots of memories.

Deputy Sheriff Greg Brillhart told all students how his department can help young people stay out of big trouble.

Pausing on their way into the Valentine's Day dance are Todd Augsburg and Paula Miller.

Mario Brunicardi thinks putting up silver stars and blue crepe paper was fun.

"You can enjoy a dance even with a broken arm," says Jamie Krill.

Cleanup is an important job for the decorating crew members like Curt Lyons.

Eighth grade dance is "Stairway To The Stars"

Eighth graders got a chance to dance with their parents as well as with each other. John Saneda and mom enjoy a waltz.

It was a warm night and Dave Bruns with friends treated themselves to cold drinks, cake and cookies.

Old favorites and newer songs made the Christmas program enjoyable for all to hear. Featured in one song were Kelli Rowan, Melissa Hussy, Laura Parker, Miriam VanBuskirk, Chris Harding, Kelly Hurley and Dustin Favourite.

"Reach for the phone to inform my friends," sing Lesley Harman and Michelle Rieman.

Tricia Lord, as Karen, plays a new girl in town. She has trouble making new friends and wants to return to Rockbridge.

"Girl watching!" is a favorite pastime for this group of boys: Lonnie LaRowe, Scott Chamberlain, Dave Bruns, Jay Klingler, Tom Baughman, Matt Rosendaul, Ed Trueman and Jim Hug.

The Clubhouse Gang talk over some of their problems. Sheri Huffman has problems at home and gets support from Jim Hug, Lisa Shumaker, Beth Harlow, Lisa Nowak (who has overprotective parents), Miriam VanBuskirk and Tina Miller (the kid).

Chorus presents musical

The Bryan Middle School Chorus presented its first musical this year. The musical, "Coming of Age", was written by Ann Distler with music by Melanie Hammet. It concerns the problems of growing up as seen through the eyes of the kids themselves.

There were no roles for adults in this play, nor were there adult roles for kids to play. The IN-CROWD group were all dressed alike in "preppy clothing"; the OUT-CROWD group included dreamers, losers, the clumsy, the witty, the sophisticated and, of course, a jock. The play centered around a group of friends named THE CLUBHOUSE GANG who tried to help each other with their problems.

Chorus director Glenn Miller directed the music with Dick Reece from the high school leading the accompaniment. Mary Beth Snider, assisted by Pat Burkholder, directed the acting. Lynn Pettigrew, Dick Reece and Suzanne Miller handled the choreography.

Some of the musical numbers included: "Birds and Bees", "Grounded", "On the Outside Looking In", and "Coming of Age".

Student Council gives year of service

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS.
PRESIDENT: Steve Voigt; TREASURER:
Carrie Hoeffel; EIGHTH GRADE CLASS
REPRESENTATIVE: Mario Brunicardi;
SECRETARY: Christa Francisco;
REPORTER: Lesley Harman; VICE PRESIDENT: Laurie Brown

Student Council representatives are elected by their classmates. They are students who are interested in serving their school and community in a responsible and enthusiastic manner. They have truly been an asset to Bryan Central Middle School this past year.

Adviser for this group, Principal Mr. Tom Dominique, guided them into projects that would be of service to the community, the staff and the students. Through the Christmas collection they responded to the need of an area family. On National Teachers Day, they presented each teacher with a carnation of appreciation. For the benefit of the students, they sponsored three dances and an assembly program. The Student Council sponsored Spirit Week when everyone got to join in some "good spirited" fun (except for the day that school was cancelled).

Christmas collection by Student Council

The Student Council at Bryan Central Middle School decided to do a special project this year at Christmas time. With high unemployment in our area, students tried to brighten the holiday for an area family. They collected money and donations so they could give this family a tree complete with the trimmings, food and presents for the whole family.

Pictured below are Amy Perkins and Steve Voigt representing Mr. Wetmore's first period class. They received a plaque for the class donating the most money toward this project.

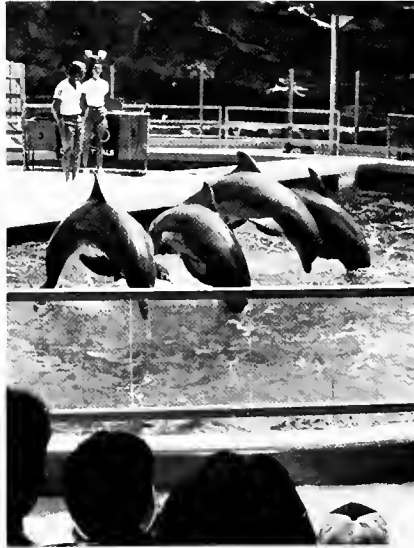

TRIMMING THE TREE. Student Council officers Steve Voigt, Lesley Harman, Christa Francisco, Carrie Hoeffel, and Laurie Brown (in front) join in to help Santa with tree trimming chores at an area home. Several hundred dollars in food and presents were given to this family on behalf of the Middle School students.

Youthpower

"The students in the Youthpower group are careful but enthusiastic workers," comments Youthpower adviser, Bonnie Zup.

Open to all students, this group learns about the organization of food service. They help in the preparation, service and cleanup at various luncheons and dinners during the entire school year. They provide this service to their school but also to groups in the community such as the Bryan Chamber of Commerce and the GALA Senior Citizens.

Through this work and their attendance at meetings, students earn credit toward an "end of the year" trip. This year 41 Youthpower members enjoyed a beautiful day at Cedar Point, Sandusky, Ohio.

Youthpower members enjoyed this dolphin show at Cedar Point in May.

Stephanie Wallace carries 2 of the 400 dinners served to the Chamber of Commerce.

LEFT: O.S.O.C. member Lesley Harman has musical talent also.

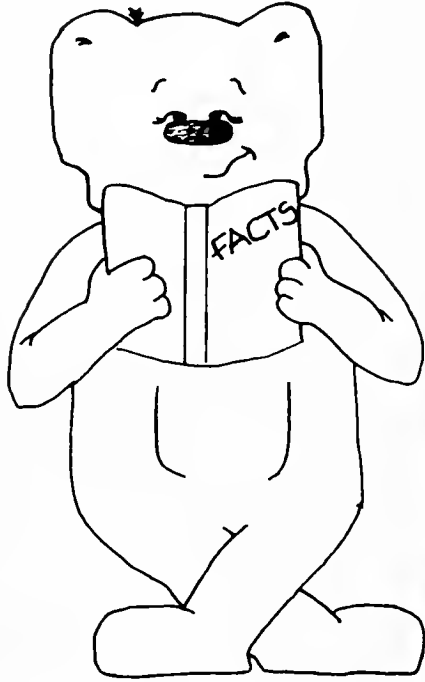

Outstanding Students of Central are selected periodically during the school year. They are nominated and then selected by their teachers and all three grade levels are represented.

This honor is not dependent on academic ability. Students are selected on the basis of: regular display of citizenship, good manners, service to school, preparedness for school, responsibilities, proper attitude, manner of dress and respect for others.

These students usually are active in many areas of school life and use their abilities in service to both students and staff.

Through participation in a fundraising event, O.S.O.C. members visited King's Island this year. Along the way, they stopped at the Space Museum in Dayton.

Student Aides

Students who volunteer to use their study halls to work in the office or in the library must keep their grades up too.

Office aides really feel like "go-fers" at times since they go around for attendance slips at the beginning of each class period. They also go on errands and deliver messages.

Library aides help Mrs. Reiser by watching out for those overdue books and shelving returned books.

Thank you to these students who help our school to run so efficiently.

LIBRARY AIDES: Alison Wiseman, Dana Kelly, Amy Dickson, Hope Ballard, Cheryl Shafer, Cindy Flower, Paula Thornburg, Pam Schad

Yearbook has new look

Cropping pictures, making layouts and writing copy were new experiences this year for both the students and adviser, Mrs. Bonnie Zup. Editorial staff members usually worked during lunch hours but also used study halls and after school hours. Excitement and interest came from all the "new" things that were done with this year's BEAR FACTS. This marks the first time a hard cover edition has been printed. Also new are the gold and purple cover, the candid school life photos and the sports action shots.

Business adviser, Mrs. Barb Rode, worked with an enthusiastic staff of students who obtained copy from our advertisers. During the week of sales, students heard catchy ads during morning announcements and saw staffers marching through the halls with placards. These efforts were rewarded with a record 300 yearbooks ordered.

Profits from this year's yearbook sales will be put into adding pages and improving the next one. Also, while Mrs. Zup's personal camera was put to good use this year, a new camera with a zoom lens will now be used by the staff.

Copy writers, Carolyn Bell and Stacy Ellis, find that sometimes it isn't easy to match the space in the layout.

Identifying students in 600 pictures was one job of Tammy Beucler, Lori Schaffer, and Amy Eleger. Not pictured but also helping were: Jim Hug, Andrea Dickson, Courtenay Feil, Beth Harlow, Kerri Saneda, Linsey Phillips, Gina Baird.

Undefeated season for eighth grade

Explosive offense and good defense were a winning combination for the eighth grade football team this year. This was the first time since the early 1960's that a Bryan junior high team had an undefeated season. Steve Voigt (pictured at right) helped out in the running and kicking departments.

Officers Plan Ahead

It takes a whole year of work on the part of the class officers to plan for the eighth grade party in May. They start with a fund-raising event which, this year, was selling candles and 2-year planning calendars. Then comes the hard work of selecting the theme which, for 1983, is "Stairway to the Stars". Decisions about refreshments, decorations and music are also in the hands of these officers. For 1982-83, the eighth grade officers are: (pictured left) Lisa Shumaker, treasurer; Becky Madeker, secretary; Mario Brunicardi, president; Kevin Bish, vice-president.

Potato chips are the hottest item in our snack machine but cookies, crackers and nuts also sell well. One of the five varieties of juice from the juice machine quench anyone's after-school thirst. Athletic Director, Mr. Jerry Snodgrass, oversees these popular vending machines. He thinks the machines are good because they provide extra income for the sports program. At times, there is a litter problem, especially in the fall, but our students are usually very responsible.

Pins and Ducks Seen in Sixth

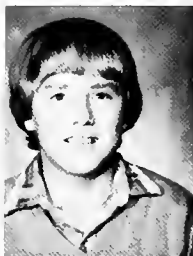

Friendship pins are brightening up the shoes of sixth graders this year. These small safety pins with colored beads are exchanged as a sign of friendship. Boys and girls, alike, collect them and then hope that their laces don't break!

Duck shoes and leg warmers made their appearance on sixth grade girls this year. The boat-shaped duck shoes come in many colors and are substitutes for high winter boots. Legs are kept cozy in leg warmers, but some think they look like very wrinkled knee socks with the feet cut off.

Social Studies Comes Alive

In the sixth grade, Social Studies is a mixture of history, geography and sociology. History, at times, has come alive through skits and plays performed in our classrooms. Whether it's playing famous people like Julius Caesar or Marco Polo, or acting out a Greek myth, students become involved in their learning. Constructing special projects, also, adds to our knowledge of history. At various times, displays include pyramids, medieval castles and 3-dimensional graphic-relief maps.

Administration at Work

Principal Tom Dominique brings to Bryan Central Middle School 13 years of experience in the field of education. "The Middle School should offer a period of opportunities for growth. Social, academic, physical and emotional growth is important for students at this time," comments Mr. Dominique. For these reasons, he has guided Central from a junior high philosophy to a middle school philosophy. Our school is more student oriented than subject oriented.

The transition from elementary to high school begins with 6th graders who have two team teachers for most classes. Finally, by 8th grade, students are changing rooms and teachers for all classes. Our administration works to make this a smooth transition for all.

Mrs. Joyce Smith, School Secretary, is the person to go to for help and information.

Four new teachers joined the Bryan Central Middle School faculty as they welcomed students for the 1982-83 year. Just as "variety is the spice of life", so variety among the teaching staff makes school interesting. We have singles and marrieds, gardeners and athletes, introverts and extroverts. A variety of favorite pastimes include jogging, golfing, skiing and volleyball. Yet, within this variety, our teaching staff strives toward educational excellence.

Two Retire From Staff

Tom Guise, head custodian, has worked at Central since May 1, 1951. Before 1959, the school was a high school. He even went to school here and graduated in the auditorium. Mr. Guise only has had a few dislikes, such as: getting up at 4:30 a.m. in cold weather to shovel the walks and heating up the building. He is looking forward to a trip South. In commenting on his many years at Central, Mr. Guise was glad to say, "From the time I've worked here until now, the kid's behavior has gotten better."

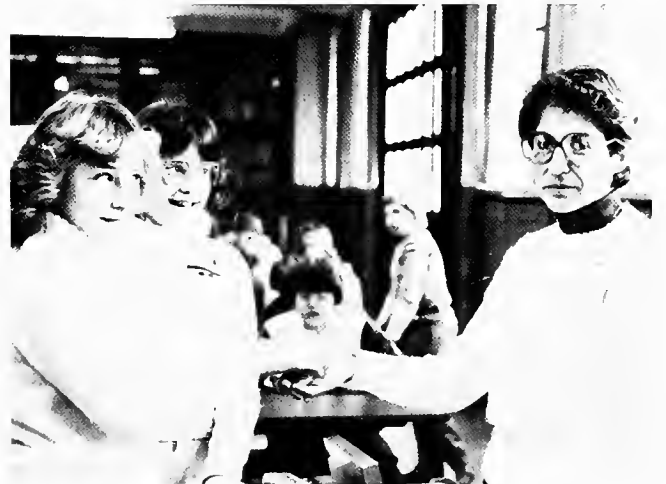

Marion "Red" Kemp, right, retires after 14 years of service. He closed the building after evening activities at Central.
